The person who located the 2015 U.S. Capitol
Christmas Tree

During her ten-year career with the Forest Service, Mandy has worked as a Forester and National Environmental Policy planner. For seven of those years, I have called the Chugach National Forest my home. She considers locating the 2015 Capital Christmas tree and responsibility for its care during the journey from Alaska to Washington D.C. an honor.

The person who will fell the 2015 U.S.
Capitol Christmas Tree

Dan has 16 seasons with the Forest Service. He works as an Engine Captain on a Type 6 Engine for the Chugach National Forest, Seward Ranger District. Before coming to the Seward District in 2004, he spent five seasons working as a firefighter on the Payette, Nez Perce and Beaverhead National Forests while attending the University of Montana. Dan spends his free time fishing, hunting and camping with his wife Katie and their new husky puppy throughout southcentral Alaska.
